

Curating Joy in Crises...

Certainty...
Comfort... or Confidence?

Certainty, Comfort, or Confidence?

In times of instability it is human to desire for some certainty- some stability that helps us regain our equilibrium.

This is not a bad thing, so long as our certainty is not misplaced.

Our world and ways of doing things have been upended so...

What now?

How do we understand our faith?

What is our faith aiming at?

How do we inspire others to godly confidence?

- We possess it.
- We model it.
- We express it.
- We embody it.

³³ I have said these things to you, that in me you may have peace. In the world you will have tribulation. But take heart; I have overcome the world.”

John 16:33 (ESV)

What moments in 2020 have caused you to see differently?
How have these moment inspired your creativity?

What of this past year's events have given you cause for joy?

Our faith inspires joy rooted in the living hope we have in the resurrection. Resurrection is the ultimate creative response to a dreadful circumstance.

Curating Joy?